

Generative Syntax in the Twenty-First Century: The Road Ahead

Athens, Greece
May 28-30, 2015

Poster Session

Parameters of abstract Case

Alison Biggs, University of Oxford

A New Frontier in Generative Syntax: (Socio)Linguistic Variation

Heather Burnett, CNRS/Université de Toulouse 2

Interaction and Satisfaction in φ -Agreement

Amy Rose Deal, UC Santa Cruz

A Hidden Consensus: Computational Invariants of Minimalist Syntax

Thomas Graf, Stony Brook University

Predictions of late agreement: Feeding and bleeding

Laura Kalin, University of Connecticut

Pervasive intervention and the architecture of Language

Hadas Kotek, McGill University

Local Merge and Discontinuous Lexical Items: Case as a Nominal
Complementizer

Katy McKinney-Bock, Reed University

The Road Ahead is 'Remote': Core Operations, Remote Dependencies in Binding, Control

Alexandra Motut, University of Toronto

Chain formation as inclusion relations at the interfaces

Carlos Muñoz-Perez, Universidad de Buenos Aires & Georg-August-Universität
Göttingen

Semitic Construct State: A Phase Approach

Mohammed Shormani, Ibb University, Yemen

Back to the Roots: Small Clause Evolution?

Marcelo Sibaldo, UFRPE/UAST

How to falsify grammars (again) – as pairs and triplets of theories

Volker Struckmeier, University of Cologne

Complement Selection in Generative Grammar: the Road Ahead

Christos Vlachos, University of Patras